JACKHAMMERS AT STONEGATE—A team of jackhammer operators slowly chip out a utility trench at the Stonegate Ridge housing tract in South San Francisco last week. Last month the city council denied a blasting permit requested by the Lowrie Paving Company when solid rock was encountered while excavating. Construction schedules have already been delayed several months, according to a company spokesman. (Post Photo)

More Bruno Riots?

A former inmate of San Francisco's County Jail in San Bruno said yesterday that another riot, more destructive than Monday's hour-long disturbance, is imminent "unless action is taken soon to better conditions there."

"Once they (the inmates) decided it can be done they'll bust that joint loose," the man, who asked that his identity remain anonymous, told The Post.

In a published article appearing in The Times on July 27 the same person said San Bruno prison was "a powder keg with a short fuse."

He accused Sheriff Matt Carberry of "putting up a front" with his periodic meetings with a prison grievance committee established by Attorney Patrick Hallinan, himself a one-time prisoner at the facility.

"Either (Sheriff Matt) Carberry doesn't recognize the problems at the prison—or he just doesn't want to recognize them," the man said.

The "riot" involved about 200 inmates on the sixth tier of the huge yellow complex in the hills bordering San Bruno.

Prisoners set fire to mattresses, burned several waste baskets and banged tin cups on steel doors. Smoke could be seen billowing from the upper floor windows.

Sheriff Carberry told newsmen he believed the demonstration was organized by a "sit-in demonstrator" now serving a sentence at the prison, and was timed to coincide with a group of from 30 to 40 pickets marching outside the facilities main gate.

"What will Sheriff Carberry use for an excuse when the last sit-in demonstrator is released," the man, who admits to having served time in several prisons around the country, asked.

There are many things that

End Of Summer Recess

Classes began Tuesday at San Bruno city schools and Catholic schools throughout the North Peninsula area.

Officials said a regular schedule will be followed through Thursday at the San Bruno schools. Classes will not meet Friday, which is Admission Day, a state holiday.

There will be a mass movement of 9,600 Daly City and Colma youngsters to attend 21 schools in the Jefferson Elementary District on Monday, September 12.

Summer vacation, like the little red schoolhouse and its tolling bell, will definitely belong to the past.

All students attending Ben Franklin seventh and eighth grade school are reminded of the new time schedule adopted this year because of increased enrollment.

The school day for eighth grade students will be 8:30 a.m. to 3:05 and for seventh graders from 9:20 a.m. to 3:55 p.m.

Newest school to open that date will be John F. Kennedy on Market Street against the slopes of San Bruno Mountain. Formal dedication ceremonies, however, will be held September 26.

Greeting the tide of kindergarten-through-eighth-grade pupils on September 12 will be 410 teachers or an average of 23-plus pupils per teacher, although the figures will vary according to conditions.

Seventy-five of these teachers will be new to the district, holding degrees from 39 of the country's universities and colleges. Forty-seven of them attended California colleges, 19 studying at San Francisco State, and 13 at the several campuses of the University of California.

These new teachers have undertaken an orientation period during the past two weeks that involved reviewing curriculum materials and methods, district regulations and practices and in meetings with their principals and central office personnel.

The first meeting of the district's entire teaching staff will be held the morning of Wednesday, September 7, at Colma K-6 School, Hillside and Market Streets, Daly City. The teachers will be addressed by George G. Perry, chairman of the district board of trustees, and Frank L. Greenwood, district superintendent.

Three pre-kindergarten classes will operate at M. Pauline

Stonegate Ridge

Without Blasting S.S.F. Project Schedule Lags

Schedules at Stonegate Ridge housing development in South San Francisco are already several months behind primarily due to a recent city council ruling prohibiting blasting in the area.

With more than 1,350 feet of utility trenches to be dug, the Lowrie Paving Company hit solid rock and asked the city for a blasting permit.

A group of homeowners in the area vigorously protested blasting on the ridge and the council unanimously denied the permit.

"The way we're progressing through this rock with jackhammers, it probably will take us at least ten times longer than originally planned," project foreman James Wells said this week.

Since May 7, some 9,700 feet of trenching has been dug. The trenches will be used for storm sewers and plumbing, but not for PG&E and Pacific Telephone tie-ins.

"When we requested the (blasting) permit for this project the estimated time needed to dig trenching for both the PG&E and telephone companies was included," Wells said.

A full-time team of jackhammer operators is slowly lengthening the trenches, but work cannot proceed until present excavating is finished and, finally, private utility companies complete their work.

Slightly more than 100 feet of trenching has been hammered out of the gray rock since the August 16 council ruling on blasting.

Fears that seasonal rains will cause washouts and landslides in the area before the project can be completed, prompted the council to approve certain "aids" to the developer.

One city official said, during the regular meeting last month, that costs of "protecting" the already completed improvements would

Special Bruno Chamber Meet About the Mall

A special meeting of the San Bruno Chamber of Commerce for discussion of the city's proposed $1.5 million shopping mall project will be held Monday night in the Chamber Council room, Manager Dick King said today.

King said a panel will be assembled to discuss pros and cons of the plan, recommended by a consulting firm, and all interested persons are urged to attend.

The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Fund Grant For 'Early I.D. Center'

The Federal Office of Education has approved application for funds for the South San Francisco Unified School District's "Early Identification Center" project, Congressman J. Arthur Younger announced this week.

Application for the project fund, $132,130, was made through the office of the San Mateo County Superintendent of Schools, with the South San Francisco Unified School District serving as administrative and fiscal agent.

Purpose of the program, under the direction of Dr. Phyllis Van Vleet, is to "identify behavior problem children early, provide appropriate intervention within the school-family-community environment, demonstrate effectiveness of the project and make the results available so they may become a step toward adequate preventive mental health."

Youth Corps Money For N. County

Pacifica and South San Francisco are among five San Mateo County cities that will benefit from a recent federal grant of $199,360 for the county's Youth Corps training school program.

The enrollees will receive $1.25 per hour for work performed for city and county governments and non-profit organizations.

The county of San Mateo will contribute $126,780 to the project, bringing total available funds to $326,140.

Tot Drowns In Portable Swim Pool

Despite elaborate precautions to keep children from a portable swimming pool, a two-year-old Pacifica girl, Jennifer Baxter, was found drowned Monday in 15 inches of water in the pool.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Baxter, she somehow slipped inside a fence designed to keep her out, and apparently climbed onto a poolside bench and fell in, a Pacifica police casualty report indicated.

The plunge was in the family's backyard at 823 Iris Court, Pacifica, behind a four-foot-high picket-type fence. Chicken wire had also been placed at the bottom of the fence in an additional effort to keep the youngster out of the pool.

The girl's body was discovered floating face down in the pool by her brother, Randy, 9, who had been sent outside by Mrs. Baxter to see what Jennifer was doing. She had been playing in the backyard.

Pacifica firemen's efforts to revive the victim through resuscitation failed. She was declared dead on arrival at Mary's Help Hospital.

One Talks, One Robs At Store

Two men walked into the Westlake Liquor Store in Daly City last week and while one kept co-owner Carl Barbato occupied the other reached into the open register and grabbed up more than $225 in currency.

Barbato told police the men entered the store at 12:30 p.m. and "shopped around" before one of the pair asked him for a certain type of beverage.

The theft was not discovered until both men had left the store and Barbtao was ringing up the sale.

Papers Under S.S.F. Church Pew Set Afire

The question facing arson investigators in South San Francisco today is: Are the Beatles really more popular than Jesus?

Yesterday someone apparently tried to burn down the Mater Delorosa Church at 307 Willow Avenue, by stuffing papers under one of the pews and setting fire to them.

An early hour churchgoer spotted the blaze and notified the fire department.

Although arson attempts involving churches in that city are rare, there have been absolutely no reports of Beatle records being burned, according to a fire department official.

Infant Dies At S.S.F.– Pneumonia

The death of a six-month-old South San Francisco boy last Wednesday was caused by interstial pneumonitis (quick-acting pneumonia), County Coroner Robert Cole said.

David Thomas Lambertson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter H. Lambertson, of 44 Arlington Avenue, was pronounced dead on arrival at Mary's Help Hospital shortly after 7 p.m.

Mrs. Lambertson said she had given the child aspirin and had left the room to get a nursing bottle.

When she returned, the baby was gasping for breath. Mouth to mouth resuscitation, applied by the father, failed to revive the baby.

Police were summoned and the child was rushed to the hospital.

Cole said some 25 cases of interstial pneumonitis are reported in San Mateo County each year.

"Death normally comes within hours after the disease is contacted," Cole said. "Usually, it attacks those in the two to four-month-old age brackets."

Gov. Brown Will Speak

can be done to eliminate certain problems at the jail at little or no cost, according to the former inmate.

"It's a 1934 jail being run with 1934 methods," he said.

Members of the Pacifica Heights Association, a group of homeowners in the area, have expressed fear that escaping inmates might harm them.

Following a "guided tour" of the jail last month, several members of the association expressed "shock and disgust" at conditions there.

Richard Whiddon, president of the association, said neighbors of the prison were in "constant fear of escaping inmates."

"Sheriff Carberry continually points to the jail's past escape record—but we're not concerned with past records, we're interested in the future," Whiddon said.

The type of prisoner now being sent to the San Bruno jail has changed, according to the former inmate.

Television cameramen, who had been alerted that the demonstration would take place, recorded the disturbance yesterday.

"This was a planned and prepared show," Sheriff Matthew Carberry said. Four broadcasting stations had been telephoned before the riot began, he said.

Carberry described the demonstration, which coincided with picketing outside, as "the worst I've seen at the jail in my 10 years here."

The sheriff blamed "professional agitators" for unrest at the jail. More than 40 civil rights sit-in demonstrators were jailed six weeks ago, and many were still behind bars Monday.

The inmates, protesting conditions in the jail, piled mattresses in an empty cell and burned them, the sheriff said. The prisoners yelled and clanged tin cups on the bars as newsmen appeared outside the jail, located in a suburban area 10 miles south of San Francisco.

Then the inmates climbed to windows throughout their wing and shouted complaints of jail conditions. Order was restored without use of force, Carberry said. There were no injuries reported.

Carberry said the inmates agreed to end their agitation when he assured them some of their complaints were already being rectified.

As the disturbance began, about 30 persons picketed outside the jail fence, half a mile away, protesting conditions.

The prisoners complained of racial discrimination, poor food, unsanitary conditions and lack of recreational opportunities. The sheriff said he believes some of the grievances have merit but denied there was any intention of discrimination."

The Labor Day riot was attributed to "hardened convicts" by both Whiddon and the former inmate.

"One-third of the inmates are alcoholic," the former inmate pointed out. "You can bet when the riot started these men ran and hid under the nearest bed. All they want is to be left by themselves."

These "winos" should be separated from the felon-types now being sent to the prison as a result of overcrowding at other facilities, the man said.

Last month, the State Board of Corrections investigated conditions at the jail after being bombarded with letters from various groups.

There will be bus schedules for Ben Franklin. Students are requested to take the bus which applies only to their grade level.

Seventh grade students are asked to assemble on the playground area near the multi-use room when they arrive on the first day of school, September 12.

Parents may call WY 2-1000 for further information.

Jefferson educators announced that students new to the district may register September 8 at elementary schools nearest their homes.

Natalie M. Lipman, Bayshore School District superintendent in Daly City, this week announced this attendance schedule;

Midway School-kindergarten, first and second grades; all children living on 900, 1000 block of Schwerin Street.

Bayshore School-kindergarten, first, second and third grades; all students in above grades who live other than 900, 1000 block of Schwerin Street.

The Laguna Salada School District will open its doors to over 9,000 school children in grades (K through eight in 13 school buildings. A full day will be in effect on the opening day of school.

A total of 177 teaching days are included in the 1966-67 school calendar. Teachers will also participate in four in-service and orientation days scheduled during the school term.

The spring vacation at Easter time will be held from March 20 to March 24. The final holiday of the school year will be on May 30, Memorial Day.

Parent-teacher conferences are again scheduled this year for three periods. At this time, minimum days will be held to allow teachers and parents to meet to discuss children's progress in the classroom. These periods are set for November 21, 22 and 23; February 7, 8 and 9, and April 17, 18, and 19.

Seventeen administrators will be at the helm of operation in the 13 schools of the Laguna district.

This includes four assistant principals assigned to upper graded schools at the initial recommendation of the teaching staffs of those schools. These schools are Portola, Cabrillo, Linda Mar and Fairmont.

Administrative assignments will remain relatively stable to the last school year, however some changes have been made.

Bernard Barrish, last year's principal at the Ortega School will this year serve at the Cabrillo School; John Yohanan, last year at Westview School, has been assigned to the Ortega School, and a new employe, Thomas McGrath, will be principal of the Westview School.

McGrath, a graduate of U.C. Berkeley, comes to the district with 10 years of experience, four years as principal in a K-8 school and last year as a curriculum consultant in the Mt. Pleasant Elementary School District in Santa Clara County.

Jackhammers Slowing Up Ridge Work

have to be included in the development's assessments.

"Whether this will, in turn, raise the cost of a home at Stonegate is entirely up to the developer," the official said.

The Stonegate Ridge project is a combination private and public development.

When the council originally approved the housing development plans, a "no blasting" clause was agreed upon.

The company's request for a blasting permit triggered a sharp response from the Park Avenue Heights Homeowner's Association.

Mrs. Lucille Creamer, spokesman for the well-organized group, accused the developer of failing to disclose the presence of rock formations from the start of the project.

"We can put up with jackhammer noise, but not with the fear that our homes will be in danger from falling rocks, or of injury to our person, as a result of the blasting," Mrs. Creamer told the council during a public hearing on the matter.

Pacificans To Screen Film Series

The Pacifica Community Cultural Co-ordinating Committee will present the first of a series of foreign films on the theme of "The Quest for Intimacy," September 16 at Oceana High School.

Three films are included in the opening program, which begins at 7:30 p.m. The films are "La Strada," "Hiroshima Mon Amour," and "No Exit", of Italian, French, and Argentine production respectively.

Tickets for the program are now on sale at the Pacifica City Hall Recreation Department at $3 for the entire series, to be presented on four consecutive Fridays. Tickets are $1.50 for each program at the door.

The program is co-sponsored by the College of San Mateo, and speakers from the college, including Dr. William H. Miller, will conduct discussion sessions. Dr. Morton J. Keston, professor of psychology at San Francisco State College, will also be on the speaking program.

One semester unit of credit at the College of San Mateo can be gained through participation in the program. Dr. Miller will explain requirements for gaining the college credit at the September 16 meeting, Publicity Director Shirley Drye said.

Well-Mannered Pair In Broadmoor Drug Holdup

A pair of "exceptionally well-mannered" gunmen held up the Broadmoor Pharmacy at 2388 Junipera Serra last Wednesday and fled with "at least $700" and an unknown quantity of narcotics.

The pair entered the store shortly after 9 a.m., as owner Neil Hilerbrand was opening the safe.

One of the men walked up behind Hilderbrand and stuck a "hard object" in his back, ordering him to lie face down on the floor.

As the men began rummaging through the narcotics locker, Miss Meeg Blommerberg walked in to purchase a birthday card and was likewise ordered to lie on the floor.

"The gunman was exceptionally well-mannered and promised he would not hurt me," Miss Blommeberg told The Times. "He took my elbow and guided me to the area behind the counter."

She said Hildebrand was already there with his hands and legs taped.

"I told them I had a bad back and they apologized for the inconvenience," Hildebrand said. "One of the men reached down and cut the tape after I complained."

He said the gunmen seemed "disappointed" that a larger stock of narcotics was not on hand.

"I was certain they were going to 'bean me'," Hildebrand said.

Shortly after the pair grabbed Miss Blommeber, another employee, Mrs. Billie Buchanan, entered the pharmacy and was ordered to "get behind the counter and keep your head down."

Although none of the victims actually saw a gun "I knew they had one," Mrs. Buchanan said.

Hildebrand told police the pair took a large amount of blank money orders drawn on the Central Valley Bank, postage stamps, narcotics and "all the store's money."

After ransacking the narcotics locker and cleaning out the cash drawer and safe, the gunmen fled in Hildebrand's car.

Police later recovered the car on Warner Avenue — less than two blocks from the robbery scene.

Discriptions of the pair were vague; both were in their 30's, of medium height, weighing approximately 175 pounds.

One of the men wore oversized sunglasses, a dark jacket and had uncombed hair.

3 Early-Morning Bruno Drinkers Take $2,670

Three early morning drinkers held up the San Bruno Cocktail Club on San Mateo Avenue about 6:15 a.m. last Saturday and escaped with $2,670 in casn.

Bartender Charles J. Galea said two men came into the bar and ordered beer shortly after he opened at 6 a.m. Another man entered three or four minutes later wearing a halloween mask and carrying a revolver in his hand.

The pair at the bar then stood up and brandished pistols, and ordered Galea and three customers in the establishment to lie on the floor. The cash was taken from the register and a cash drawer, and a jar of change was removed from a safe. Two checks totaling $194 were also taken.

After rifling through the safe, one of the men tied Galea's hands behind his back with his belt and a roll of friction tape. Galea and the three customers were then locked into a back room of the building, which houses a cafeteria and a card room in conjunction with the bar and lounge.

The holdup men then tore the receivers off two telephones in the bar and fled through a side exit.

Galea and the three customers, J. B. Covey, Max J. Branshaw and William Barber, let themselves out of the back room, which had the type door lock that opens without a key from the inside, as soon as they heard the trio close the side door.

Galea telephoned police from a third phone, concealed beneath the bar, which had been overlooked by the holdup men.

Witnesses said the three robbers were casually dressed.

One was described as about 30 years old, five feet-ten inches talln and weighing about 150 pounds. He had a handlebar mustache and wore a brown suede sport jacket.

Another was about 50 years old, six feet tall and weighed about 190 pounds. He wore a dark blue sport jacket and brown trousers

The man wearing the halloween mask was described as middle aged and "short and stocky." He wore dark trousers and a jacket.

Patrolmen Raleigh Smedley and Paul Esposito and Sgt. Fred Gillen are investigating.

Job Counseling Program Builds

Bringing teens and young adults into the mainstream of Society and helping that society to assume an understanding and helping role is the objective of a new program for community self-development.

Larry Sheppard of Jefferson Elementary School District, said a group of citizens have established a program of job counseling and training, recreational activities for older teens, study centers and homemaker services for one-parent families and senior citizens.

Information upon which the program is based was gathered at ten neighborhood meetings held during the summer.

Co-ordinator of these Community Action Meetings was Mrs. Irma Stokes of 168 Santa Barbara Avenue, Daly City. Meetings attended by local residents and resource people of Health, Educational and Welfare Agencies were held in the neighborhoods of Santa Barbara Avenue, Bellevue Avenue, East Vista, Templeton Avenue, Frankfort Street and Westlake Avenue of Daly City.

Discussions centered on the strengths and weaknesses of Daly City today with an awareness of a need for increased services as well as better co-ordination among the existant agencies. Besides these specific services a need for legal aid services, day care centers for children, expanded public health and transportation services, classes and discussion groups on parent-school, parent-child, and parent-school-community relationships was expressed.

Representation on the committee are North County Mental Health Center, Community Interaction Through You, San Mateo Health and Welfare Department, Jefferson Elementary School District, and Jefferson Union High School.

They are preparing a formal written proposal to be submitted to the Human Resources Commission of San Mateo for funding through the Office of Economic Opportunity.

Writing Classes Planned

Writing for fun and, possibly, for profit, will once again be accorded special attention in Adult School this semester, as the Jefferson Union High School District Evening Deivision will be the only adult education program in the West Bay offering creative writing classes both day and night.

Mrs. Helene Schellenberg, noted author of teenage fiction, will conduct a class at the Westmoor Park Clubhouse on Mondays from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. The Westmoor Park Clubhouse is located at 123 Edgemont Drive in Daly City.

Lee Pacini, Terra Nova journalism teacher, local sports columnist and occasional magazine writer, will, as in the past four years, be holding a class at Westmoor. Class meetings will be on ztuesday nights.

Generally, the workshops will be geared to those students who have always had a desire to write, but who have had little opportunity to be objectively read or criticised.

Discussions and criticisms from instructors and other students of both the writer's own work and other literature should assist him in enjoying at least a rewarding hobby.

By LE PACINI

LETTER writer John Pantoleon is disturbed over the frequent inequities in the determination of winning pitchers. He writes, in part:

"One day . . . Sandy Koufax pitched 11 innings . . . against the Phillies, struck out 16 men, left the ball game with the score tied, 1-1. The Dodgers rallied to win in the 12th inning, 2-1, and their reliever received credit for the win. Ridiculous! Why in the world shouldn't Koufax get the win? Here's a guy with 11 innings of one-run ball and he gets nothing but ERA credits.

"The reliever pitches to three men and he gets the win. It doesn't make sense at all. Now, ERA credits are great, but let's face it — games won looks better to the average fan. A pitcher with a 2.20 ERA and a 10-10 record just doesn't impress many fans as would one with a 4.20 ERA and 20-15. The second guy is a 20-game winner, which seems to be the magic words."

Conceding that his plan is probably full of loopholes, Pantoleon then goes on to outline how he would credit winning pitchers, and proves it.

But that isn't the point. The point is that Pantoleon has a point, and that there are baseball geniuses who can undoubtedly reason out a workable solution to the problem, which is akin to our complaint several weeks ago that starting pitchers have to go five full innings to get a win, but a relief pitcher need throw only one pitch to be eligible for more credit.

UNFORTUNATELY such a reform will never get off the launching pad, as they say at the Cape. Baseball changes rules about as often as the Vatican, and for just about the same reasons.

Baseball is a game of statistics. To carry it further, it is a game of comparative statistics. Which is to say it is based solidly on history, on tradition.

You start messing around with pitching records like that, and a lot of little worlds get upset. Right away, the purists would start saying that if Walter Johnson went by those rules he would have won 50 games in 1913, instead of 36. And so on.

Baseball does occasionally institute new statistical catagories, such as the earned run averages better than 50 years ago and the "saves" for relief pitchers most recently, but once such statistical treats are established, they're very rarely changed.

And, frankly, baseball's been smart operating that way. Rarely changed rules and traditions have always been and will always be the edge it has on other sports, such as basketball and football. A .300 batting average, for instance, still means, more or less, the same as it meant in 1920. But in 1920, if a basketball forward averaged eight points a game he was a scoring champ. Now's he'd never get into the gymnasium.

Over the years, in fact, several better ways than batting average have been advanced to determine a hitter's effectiveness, but they were never adopted because of the fear of the fan's losing his frame of reference.

At the most basic level, baseball, along with ice hockey, has the easiest, most practical scoring system. One point per run scored. The American Football League calls an extra point two, and doesn't think twice about the far-reaching consequences of such a position shift. Could you conceive of baseball ever calling a homerun three points instead of one? Never, never, never.

Baseball, in other words, has lasted because each succeeding generation has been able to fathom its nuances, and while Pantoleon's idea is sound theoretically, it's unsound, unfortunately, historically.

NOW that the heat's off, it can be told, a microcosm of a recent major league baseball problem which happened locally during the past baseball season.

Since it is, now, hot air over the transom, we won't ruffle any old memories by naming people and places, which would serve no useful purpose at this time.

The microcosm we write of closely corresponds to the recent near-mutiny in Pittsburgh resulting from a misunderstanding between manager Harry Walker and catcher Jesse Gonder.

Briefly, what happened was, on two different occasions Walker had advised his pitchers to avoid the high fast ball to Houston's Jim Wynn, in each case they didn't, in each case Wynn hit a homer, and in each case it was Gonder who was behind the plate. Gonder had called for the pitch on the second occasion, thereby going against his manager's orders, and was subsequently lifted.

It was rumored, but never confirmed that Walker intended shipping Gonder to the minors after the incident, and the players held a meeting, the outcome of which was a decision to rebel, if Gonder was sent down.

Walker refused a player request to talk to Gonder, contending he was not going to be told how to run his club. Finally, one of the coaches arranged a peace meeting and all was smoothed over.

In our local case, a couple of simple rules were broken and a player was punished. Other players succumbed to rumors, were lead by a couple of agitators, and only a firm attitude by the coach prevented a mutiny.

AT this juncture, however, the microcosm departed from the course followed by the Pirate situation, because while the rest of the team was satisfied, the original rule breaker and a couple of his followers held the grudge, refused to accept their blocks on stage in front of the student body at the season's conclusion, and were quite rightly not tendered their blocks by the coach.

The original offender then told his mother his version of the story, and she told the newspapers her version of the story, and by the time it appeared in print in one of the local dailies, the coach had been libeled to the teeth. Displaying the only good judgment of the whole lot, the coach decided to let things drop quietly rather than to file charges and lower everyone's dignity.

In each case a boss was criticized for doing a proper job and other parties were agitated into blowing a common matter of discipline into a disproportionate Big Deal.

TAG END: San Mateo's Pat Winslow, whose wild adventures in winning her sixth National AAU women's pentathlon championship we recently recounted, will be honored with a "day" this Saturday in Millbrae, where she'll receive the first Inner-Peninsula Sports Award, to be annually presented to the top athlete from South San Fancisco, Daly City, Millbrae, Burlingame, Hillsborough, and Pacifica.

Hunt's Bombers Defeat VW Bugs

The Hunt's Donuts Bombers defeated Daly City VW Bugs 9-3 to win the Daly City Recreation Department's Late Summer Intermediate Baseball League championship last week.

Gary Stoller paved the way for the Bombers as his booming triple sparked a four-run rally in the second inning. Joe Lawman and Joe Pap shared pitching honors and held the Bugs to four hits. Tim Tomasello and Robbie Ward also played good ball for the Bugs.

In an earlier contest that proved to be the turning point of the league, the Hunt's Bombers bombed the Williams Ford Mustangs, 10-3, behind the two for two hitting of Bob Schields. Bob McLennen added to the Hunts scoring punch by knocking in two more runs with a triple. Phil Federico collected two hits for the Mustangs.

The Daly City VW Bugs pulled the upset of the year by defeating the Williams Ford Mustangs 6-3 behind the 12 strike-out pitching of Gary Baptista. Leading the Bugs hitting attack were Steve Phillips and Don Theuner with three hits each.

The Weinstein-Flying Goose Sluggers romped past the PAL Dodgers 15-9 as Robert Martinez pitched and hit the Sluggers to their victory. Martinez allowed only four Dodger hits while he, Chris Welsh and Ernie Martinez collected three hits to pace the winners' attack.

The Hunt's Donuts Bombers defeated the BYA Tin Knockers 15-5 behind the three-hit pitching of Joe Randolph and the three for four hitting performance of Joe Pap.

Frank Bertini and Dennis Simms sparked the BYA attack. In their final game the league the Williams Ford Mustangs shut out the Dodgers 10-0 behind the one-hit pitching of Zane Pila. Brad Kearns and Kenny Smith led the Mustang hitting attack with two hits each. Tom Piazza collected the only hit for the Dodgers.

D.C. Horseshoe Tournament Set

The Daly City Recreation Department is now taking signups for an Adult "Singles" Horseshoe Tournament to be held at Westlake Park on Saturday, September 24.

Persons interested in competing in this tournament should contact the Recreation Department, extension 18, or Joe Valcazar immediately. Before being eligible for competition, a player must shoot three qualification games in order to be put into the proper tournament classification.

Pal Red Sox Beat Astros

The PAL Red Sox eliminated any hopes the BYA Astors had for undisputed championship as they defeated the Astros 6-2 behind the steady pitching of Herb Henderson and Dave Gonzales last week. Henderson also helped himself with the bat by collecting two hits, as did teammate Monte Retke.

Tom Gibbons and Jim Woods each had a pair of safeties for the losers. The loss gave the Astros a 6-2 record in the Daly City Recreation Department's Late Summer Midget Baseball League while the PAL Indians are 5-2 with one game left.

The BYA Astros squeaked past Calvary Cross, 5-3, in an earlier contest to round out the league action. Wayne Murray collected two hits for the Astros while Pete Woolery sparked Calvary Cross with three hits.

Sea Bowl Notes

By GINNY FEATHERSTONE

If you have not signed up for a Winter League, now is the time to do it.

Most of the leagues are starting this week, and they will need bowlers to fill up the teams.

For the ladies, there are leagues every morning except Friday—most can use some bowlers.

Also, if you are interested in learning to bowl, we are starting a woman's beginners' class September 16, at 10 a.m. in the morning. Free nursery service is provided.

Highlights of the past week included:

NEPTUNE DAUGHTERS: The gals started their new season this week and are looking forward to some good bowling. Dolly Urnezis rolled a nice 210 game and 458 series. Filling in on one of the teams, Rose Pruett had a 509.

Westmoor High Is Contender

Westmoor High, with 11 returning lettermen and an impressive array of junior gridders, will be a strong contender for top ranking in the North Peninsula Football League this season.

Coach Pete Matisi's backfield will be sparked by senior halfback Dave Dotur. All-North Peninsula League last year and a first team varsity player since his sophomore year.

Two juniors, Wayne Smith and Marico Sandoual, are vying for the center position. Neither has any prior varsity experience, but like many of the Rams' younger players, they show considerable talent.

There are currently 45 boys out for practice.

Half Moon Bay New To League

Half Moon Bay High School's Cougars start the 1966 football season fresh in more way than one. The Cougars will play in the North Peninsula League for the first time this year, and start the season with an entirely new coaching staff.

In addition, most of the players out this year are new, with only five returning lettermen on the 25-man squad.

The new head coach is Jerry Murphy, who comes to Half Moon Bay from Canyon High School in Castro Valley, where he compiled a 5-2 record last year. Murphy's coaching experience includes three years as an assistant at the College of San Mateo and two years with El Camino High School in South San Francisco.

Ron Shoemaker, an assistant at Calaveras High School last year, is the new Cougar line coach.

Of the returning lettermen, guard Rich Denny and Gid Linzy, switched from tackle to fullback this season, are probably the strongest.

No chances of coming back from last year's 1-6 record, Murphy says the team has the necessary "attitude," and pretty good speed, and "we'll do more than we are supposed to." —D.G.

Jeff's Indians

Green Up Front; Seasoned Backs

By DON GRIERSON

The Jefferson High School Indians will attempt a comeback from last year's 2-4-2 record this season with an experienced first team backfield but largely untried linemen.

Coaches Joe McGrath and Gary Leahy, with new line coach Ed Johnson, a recent graduate of San Francisco State, are currently working with 37 boys, only seven of whom have seen significant varsity action

"However, we have some pretty good boys who have summer jobs and will join the squad when school starts," McGrath said. "We expect to start the season with 45 or 50 boys out for practice."

The Indian backfield will be relying heavily on the running of senior fullback Charles Lockett, a 215-pounder who has been playing varsity since his sophomore year. Currently in the quarterback slot is another senior, Jim Bruning, and a halfback from last year's squad, Rick Britton, is returning.

Norman Garcia, who won North Peninsula League honorable mention last, is expected to provide the strongest point in the Jefferson line.

COMMENT

Well, Folks, It's That Time Again

AN estimated 140,000 students are returning to San Mateo County classrooms. This is a remarkable figure when it is considered that it is 28,000 more than the total number of people, according to the census, who lived in the county in 1940—just 26 years ago.

It represents well over one-fifth of all the people who live in San Mateo County now, according to the best population estimates for this year.

"Back to school" means that everyone who drives an auto must be ready to resume the special care needed in approaching street crossings in the vicinity of schools.

Quite apart from the safety of the children, however, the fact that 140,000 of them are returning to school in this county has interesting economic applications. During the school year it will mean the sales of at least half-a-million pairs of shoes and millions of dollars worth of clothing.

ALTHOUGH the kids have been eating right along, the impact of buying and preparing 140,000 school lunches five times a week is a substantial item to the food industry.

The chief economic factor, of course, is the cost of the schools, the biggest single item in local taxation and one of the biggest bites out of the state's revenues.

Pacifica Sees Savings In Televiewing Its Sewers

By DON GRIERSON

Pacifica and San Bruno's sanitation department report excellent success with their recently purchased sewer main trouble-shooting device, a leak detecting television camera.

Purchased jointly by the two cities at an initial cost of $12,000, the device has been in use about three months. Pacificia sanitation foreman Francis Sampson reports his department has already surveyed 10 miles of the city's 167 miles of sewer line.

The device consists of a water proof television camera and miniature floodlight, a receiving set, and another camera for photographing images from the receiver. A system of winches is used to manuever the camera, and various graphs and measuring devices are utilized in pinpointing trouble spots.

With the new system, it is possible to locate leaks and obstructions in lines as small as five or six inches. The camera is only about four inches in diameter. Workmen. simply lower it into a manhole,, attach a cable, and observe the close-up inside view of a line on the receiving set as the camera is pulled along.

Sampson says the device has already saved the city of Pacifica a considerable amount of money.

"We used to have to excavate a whole block sometimes to find one leak," he said. "This new equipment has eliminated unnecessary digging."

Pacifica and San Bruno alternate in using the new equipment, with each city utilizing it for one-month periods.

Warning on The Riot Ingredients

Samuel Chandler

IN A recent editorial, Jenkin Lloyd Jones wrote, "It is one thing to castigate a majority for having discriminated against a minority, and to demand that such discrimination cease. But it is an entirely different thing to demand that the majority grant special privileges to a minority. Under popular government, this would never last."

With these words Mr. Jones is sounding a warning that may be found in many editorials these days. These writers hold that even the most just movements turn sour when their adherents make impossible demands and resort to riots.

A riot is defined in Webster's International Dictionary as an assemblage of three or more persons in a public place for the purpose of accomplishing a concerted action in a turbulent and disorderly manner. Almost as a warning it says that the ingredients of a riot are noise, uproar and disturbance.

RIOTS have been called the "symptoms of social disease as pain is a symptom of biological disorder." History shows that invariably they spell disaster to the cause rather than its removal. In ancient Greece riots against upper class rule destroyed the city states, but did not solve the problem. Riots in Rome led to servile wars and to the formation of oppressive bodies that protected the emperor in his sins.

Riots during the French Revolution led to mob rule and the death of thousands. Riots in Austria in 1934 against German infiltration so weakened the government that it could not stop the Nazi invasion.

Yet in every movement for social justice there seems to be leaders who threaten violence, usually in thoughtless yet high-sounding phases. The record of America seems to illustrate that theirs is not the way to success—rather it shows that success comes from such things as arbitration, political activity, peaceful demonstrations and hard work.

Wise leaders realize this. With William Jennings Bryan they point to success—"The humblest citizen in all the land, when clad in the armor of a righteous cause is stronger than all the hosts of error . . . we go forth confident that we shall win." Bryan missed the presidency in three tries, but led in a movement that in 60 years has changed America.

IN this respect Jenkin Lloyd Jones observes "the long, slow but solid road to education, training and self-discipline could stand a lot more traffic. It is the road that most of America's immigrants had to travel. You didn't riot because the tenement had rats. You put the garbage in the can and the rats starved.

You saved your money and got a push-cart and later a hole-in-the-wall store. You went to night school and eventually you could move to a proper apartment and then to a row house and then to a suburb. You didn't march around throwing bottles of gasoline and demanding that it all be handed to you."

Among the articles that discuss the conditions that have led to recent riots is "City Riots, a World-Wide Plague" which appeared in Harper's in November, 1965. It was reprinted in the February 1966 Reader's Digest.

A Change In Image

Barbara Bladen

"Every time Zero Mostel does a show, I've got another role to play."

The remark came from Roger Carmel, the portly character actor in "Half a Sixpence" at the Curran Theatre for the Civic Light Opera.

A legitimate actor with film and television credits from here to the equity office, he's appearing in his first musical because it gets him away from the psycopathic killer image he creates on such shows as "Naked City."

And because he likes to work steady, eat well and occasionally buy a new suit, he turned from playwriting after graduation from Brown University in Rhode Island and became an actor. The 33-year-old performer, practically the same age as the show's star Dick Kallman, never plays a character less than age 40.

He vaguely resembles Mostel, enough that one who had only seen pictures of the now-famous comedian would confuse the two. Carmel isn't nearly as large a man as Mostel; he understudied him on Broadway in "Rhinoceros."

"He was strong as an ox but I didn't mind not going on, I spent every night watching from the wings."

Looking back over roles in seven Broadway plays and 19 off-Broadway ventures, he singled out "Falstaff" as his favorite role. He describes the Shakespearean character as being "the cause that laughter is in others."

THE SON OF A NEW YORK doctor and a mother who was a lawyer, getting established in show business wasn't easy. Summer stock, driving cabs during the day, earning $30 a week performing in Shakespeare-in-the-Park in New York's Central Park and various and sundry "bread and butter" jobs kept him going.

Having just purchased a piece of property at Malibu Beach with all the money he's made in television, Carmel feels he's enjoying "the good life" now, especially with "Half a Sixpence" playing such long runs iin San Francisco and Los Angeles.

He learned his profession by working in it and didn't question his abilities until a fellow actor working in a production of "Hamlet" remarked that he had a talent but would never realize his potential until he had studied formally.

That took Carmel to Uta Hagen, an actress-teacher of great power and communication. Her 1944 performance in "Othello" opposite Paul Robeson and Jose Ferrar is said to be "the most exciting moments in the history of the Curran Theatre."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Post welcomes letters from readers as valid public comment and opinion. They should be newsworthy. The editors reserve the right to cut or otherwise edit letters supporting or attacking political candidates. Carbon copies, and letters addressed to others will not generally be used. When many letters on the same subject are received, the editors will choose the best. While good writing and acceptable grammar are desired, more attention will be given to lively style and provocative thought. Rejection implies no lack of merit and the writer is encouraged to try again. All letters must be signed.

To The Editor:

The noise from the jet airplanes is becoming a very serious problem to all the residents of the upper Peninsula, especially to South San Francisco and Millbrae. And also here in Burlingame when there is a strong wind from the south or southwest they go over my house here at 415 Primrose Road so low that you think that they were down to rooftop. The noise is ear-splitting.

I have an idea and would like other people to join in this discussion regarding the jets.

There has been considerable talk of grading the top of San Bruno Mountain for bay fill, and I think it will come sooner than we realize. Well this would be an ideal place to have all the jets take off from. There is a growing tendency to make even larger jets in the near future, which will even make the noise greater.

The whole of San Mateo County should contribute to it. Starting with zones nearest the airport to pay more and as the distance increases from the airport to pay less.

I believe the U.S. government would contribute a considerable sum.

M. J. HENRY,
Burlingame.

To The Editor:

As the other half of petitioner, may I graciously thank the Post for coverage of the Crocker Estates Urban Beautification petition.

We who live in the area are a bit fed up for being stigmatized as apathetic and rated as second class citizens in a second rate neighborhood. We have been called a "potential ghetto area" and our children have been shunned for our "supposedly second class high school."

And who is there to defend us if we do not do it for oursleves? Educators shiver at the thought of busing and the City council ever so politely closes (its) eyes.

Most of us who live here take pride in our homes, are not ashamed of the neighborhood that we live in, and regardless of the price of the home or the families involved, all of Daly City suffers the same problems.

Open your eyes, gentlemen of the City Council, for we have made a request and want a much better answer.

(MRS.) MILLIE PEDERSEN,
Daly City.

To The Editor:

(Re:) The Post article concerning "Ode To Our Mayor," a neighborhood petition signed by 94 citizens in the Crocker Estates area: Wellington to City Limits, Mission Street to Crocker Hills area, regarding the Mayor's Urban Beautification Program for Daly City . . . I extend to you many thanks and great appreciation for the coverage of this project.

The petition was received at the Office of the Mayor on August 9. What had stimulated the interest of the petition was an article written by Mayor Polonsky . . . asking for suggestions in the $115,098 beautification program. Mayor Polonsky immediately referred the petition to the City Engineer's Office and we were given "thanks for your interest," but "this year's program . . . is finalized."

In my opinion . . . the city council had soon give this area the attention it deserves. We've been put down and tucked under the rug long enough. . . .

(MRS.) JAN YNOSTROZA,

Better Business

The Small Claims Courts in Action

Lorene Beasley

Some people continue to sign contracts blindly. Certain consumers and businessmen continue not to live up to their obligations. Bad checks continue to bounce. These are the activities which keep our small Claims Courts in operation.

Small Claims Court, a special court created to provide justice to a plaintiff without costing more than the total amount involved in the lawsuit itself, also saves the regular court's time by hearing the thousands of claims involving small amounts of money.

Anyone can avail himself of the services of the Small Claims Court if the amount involved is under $200. If the claim is for more than $200, Small Claims Court can only be used by foregoing the part of the claim over the $200 limit.

MUNICIPAL judges hear the cases. Neither plaintiff nor defendant may have the services of a lawyer in Small Claims Court. The plaintiff can sue for personal injury, property damage, return of money loaned, bad checks and labor, but not for the return of specific property or for performances of services.

Action may be started in Small Claims Court by filling out a form and paying a fee of $1.00. The form contains a court order signed by the Court clerk, directing the defendant to appear in court on a certain day and time.

Facts stated in the form must be true under the penalty of perjury. A copy of the form must be served on the defendant at least five days before the trial if the defendant lives in the county or 15 days before if it is served outside of the county where the court is located.

The plaintiff cannot serve the form himself. It can be served by the clerk by certified mail for a fee of $1.00 or, by the sheriff or any persons 18 years of age or over who has no connection with the suit. The defendant must be personally served.

THE court clerk, upon request, will issue subpoenas to witnesses for both sides. The witness subpoenas should be served in ample time before the date of trial. They are entitled to $4.00 a day and 5 cents a mile one way to court. This fee may be demanded at time of service.

If the plaintiff wins the case, the clerk enters a judgment against the defendant stating the amount and how it is to be paid. The plaintiff must collect the judgment himself. Should the losing party refuse to pay the judgment, the court clerk will issue a "writ of execution" for a fee of $1.00. The writ contains an order for the sheriff or marshall to seize and sell enough property owned by the losing party to satisfy the amount of judgment.

If the winning party wishes to garnishee the wages of a person employed by the state, county or city government, the court clerk will supply an abstract of judgment.

This is filed with the auditor of the particular government office for a fee of $2.00, with a declaration of amount of money due the plaintiff.

Labor Election Squabble Leads to Plea for Probe

By GEORGE GOLDING

Claims of forgeries by Teamsters Union members have brought requests for the FBI to investigate a three-way labor union battle to influence Pan American Airways clerks who may have not yet voted to choose which union represents them.

The demands for FBI investigation, and pleas for probes by the attorney general's office and to the Post Office Department, have come from the Air Transport Division, Brotherhood of Railway Clerks.

BRC represents some 8,000 Pan Am clerical employes across the nation, with approximately 450 of them at the San Francisco International Airport base.

Teamsters Union leaders claim they have won a "vote of confidence" from a majority of those BRC members, and demanded an election.

BRC leaders responded by removing their name from the ballot, and the Air Transport Division of the Transport Workers Union stepped into the vacuum it claimed was created.

With the 30-day mail-ballot election nearing its September 7 completion, BRC leaders are claiming that the Teamsters have resorted to forgery to sway BRC members.

The BRC also claims TWU's position in the triangle is only an aid to the Teamsters.

BRC leaders make the forgery charges in "Newsline," a labor union publication, and in a taped message that can be heard by anyone dialing a certain San Mateo telephone number.

They say teamsters have forged allegedly official letters on copies of BRC stationery, using signatures of AFL-CIO President George Meany, and of Burlingame BRC unit chief Clem Layritz.

Teamsters' Union officials say these insults are only the ineffectual barbs of a union which has failed to represent its own members.

"It's about the only thing the BRC has got going," said Mary Flescher, spokesman for the Western Conference of Teamsters at Burlingame, "and all it does is indicate to the people that they're only capable of making wild accusations and crass charges and what have you, when they're supposed to be involved in the business of representing their people. That's why they're losing them."

Teamsters and TWU leaders are urging Pan Am's clerks to vote, BRC leaders are telling their members to "tear the ballots up."

BRC claims it can win by having its members abstain from voting, but this is disputed by the teamsters, the TWU, and the federal government.

R. J. McCarthy, west coast representative of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks, Air Transport Division, explained his union's stand:

"The ATD, BRC has been the certified representative of these Pan Am employes for just about 20 years."

"The Teamsters' Union is seeking to take that representation. In order to get it, they asked the National Mediation Board to conduct a representation election, and the board is conducting that election at the present time."

"If, when an election is held, the total number of people who vote is less than a majority, then the National Mediation Board generally will dismiss the application and say that sufficient people have not voted in order to constitute a legal ballot."

"If that results, why there is no change insofar as any certification is concerned.

"In other words, either the application will be dismissed or the board will say no change in representation is desired."

That is why, McCarthy said, BRC leadership is asking its members to "not vote."

Mary Flescher, spokesman for the teamsters, disagreed:

"This behaviour is nothing any other union would get involved in, because, under the N.M.B. rules, unless 51 per cent of the people involved in the election actually vote for a union, no union is certified."

Bob Robinette, president of TWU Local 505 in San Bruno, also disagrees:

"Our position is that if the 51 per cent of the people didn't actually vote, the people would wind up without being represented by either union.

"Our primary interest in getting into the election to start with was because we felt that we could actually represent the people better than either one of those groups."

Robert Roadley, National Mediation Board agent in Washington, D.C., partially agreed with the teamsters and the TWU.

"Generally speaking, if less than a majority of eligible employes cast valid votes, then the board dismisses the application of the applicant organization on the grounds that there has been insufficient showing of interest by the employes."

Asked whether representation would automatically revert to the previously certified Brotherhood of Railway Clerks if the teamsters and the TWU together should fail to draw a 51 per cent vote, Roadley added:

"Well, now you're raising a question that I'm afraid is going to have to be settled in court some place, possibly, because this is a subject that has never come up before, that I'm aware of at least, in terms of this particular board, and that is whether or not the incumbent organization retains its certification under the rather unique circumstances of this particular case."

Teamsters spokesman Mary Flescher says her union was asked into the battle by Pan Am employes dissatisfied with representation by the BRC.

"A number of the Pan Am people of this particular group approached us about becoming Teamster Union members. Under the Railway Labor Act we're required to get cards, authorization to act cards, from 51 per cent or more, which the people did.

"We filed with the board last August 4, with over 50 per cent of the cards, and the board assigned a mediator in December, to conduct an election based on the fact that we had sufficient cards.

"We were tied up in various hearings instituted by the BRC in several different courts, and finally, let's see, it was about June, they finally said there would be an election. Sufficient cards were still in evidence and they set up the election for the first of August, and after the ballots were run off, the BRC decided to remove their name from the ballot, which caused a delay of a week while the ballots were rerun in the new appearance with only the teamsters named on the ballot as the union."

Brotherhood of Railway Clerks spokesman Dallas Hoback says the teamsters won their "authorization cards" by illegal and unfair practices, including cocktail parties for prospective members.

"Let the teamsters prove they have 51 per cent of our members," said Hoback.

"This is a democratic union and we're willing to accept that, but we're not willing to let our membership be taken over by a 26 per cent vote, which could happen if the teamsters won a simple majority of an election in which only a little over half the membership voted."

Louanne's DATEBOOK

By Louanne Heath

The color, grace and charm of the historic Sanchez Adobe will lend its own special magic blend of flavors to the always beautiful and exciting floral and art extravaganza to be held there this Saturday and sunday at 6 p.m.

Mrs. Genelle Curkendahl and Mrs. Janet Ross of the Pacifica Branch of the American Fuchsia Society and Mrs. June Alley and Kurk Poehleman of the Artists Guild of Pacifica are this year's chairmen of the annual Fuchsia and Art Festival.

Assisting the chairmen are numerous faithful members of both the sponsoring units and the fruits of their extensive labors on behalf of this event will be evident to all who take a few hours to tour the adobe's grounds and view the displays in the special booths and exhibit areas, Mrs. Curkendahl reports.

Among those actively involved in this program are Mrs. Edna Laurel Calhan, just returned from her trip to Alaska with the Fifty Plus Club, who will serve as the mistress of ceremonies. Mrs. Calhan is a longtime member of the Fuchsia society. Other members of the group who will be on hand this weekend are Mrs. Doris Beaumont, doing corsage demonstrations. Mrs. Marguerite Harrje who will be making Fuchsia dolls; Mrs. Nola Capps and Mrs. Marge Gentry will be handling the arrangements for refreshments; Mrs. Clara Christensen and Mrs. Olive Puntia the chairman of the table, and Mrs. Alice Birney who will be in the educational booth showing soil culture and fuchsia growth from seed to full bloom.

For their contribution to the festival members of the Artists Guild will be demonstrating art in Action, showing oil painting, water color painting and various crafts. Artists from the guild as well as artists who have no affiliations with either of the sponsor groups will be displaying as many as three paintings each or five samples of craft work.

Fuchsias, the official flower of Pacifica, will be displayed in a myraid of ways about the balconies and the grounds and fuchsia plants will be given away every two hours during the show.

IN the less than 30 days between August 9 and September 5, the four members of the Murray Freedman family observe their birthdays with an annual round of celebrations that must make the windup of summer a pretty exhausting affair.

This year, with their usual exuberance the Freedmans have marked the multiple occasions with a trip to New York and a local luncheon party hosted by Mrs. Mary Ellen Ariani.

It is Freedman who must wait until September to open his gifts and this year it was well worth waiting until last for. Emily managed to surprise him with a special autographed copy of the recently released book, "The Search for Amelia Earhart," by San Francisco's Fred Goerner.

Goerner, who met Emily for luncheon at the Press Club just prior to leaving on a 32 city promotion tour and signed the copy for Murray, is co-host of the KCBS radio Spectrum 74 program heard daily.

Mater Dolorosa Selects Autumn Harvest Theme

Bushels of fun are in store for everyone at the Mater Dolorosa "Autumn Harvest" September 22 through 25 on the church grounds.

A huge tent will be pitched on the parking lot at Forest View and Miller avenues to accommodate more than 20 booths.

A harvest of prizes will be offered, said co-chairman, Mrs. William Rebholtz.

Booth Chairmen Bernard Eichhorn and Mrs. Alfred Malley have planned a variety of booths for every age group.

Dad will be attracted by the sports equipment booth and everyone can try the baseball toss, dart toss and hit-a-strike booth.

Mom may add to her week's supply of groceries at another booth, and there will be a cake booth to satisfy the family's sweet tooth.

Children will find booths designed with games especially for the young set. There will be a train for small fry.

Teenagers will have a chance to win the latest hit tunes at the record booth and may try out their artistic talents at the paint booth.

One of the main features of the four-day festival will be a roast beef dinner to be held Sunday September 25 from 2 to 5 p.m. There will also be a refreshment booth in the tent for anyone who wants a snack while trying their luck at the various booths.

Hours for the festival will be from 8 to 10 p.m. Thursday; 7:30 to 10 p.m. Friday; 2 to 10 p.m. Saturday and 1 to 9 p.m. Sunday.

Proceeds from the festival will benefit the church building fund.

Closet Yields D.C. Suspect In Burglary

Daly City police arrested a suspected burglar last Wednesday while he huddled in a bedroom closet following a room by room search of the Albert D. Saltzman home at 68 Northgate Avenue.

A neighbor called police when a man was seen forcibly entering the Saltzman home.

While three officers guarded various exits, another officer approached the front door.

As the officer reached to open the door, Jerome A. Anderson, 25, of 325 27th Street, San Francisco, stuck his head out, quickly withdrew it and slammed the door in the officer's face.

A room by room search of the home began and Anderson was allegedly found hiding behind clothes in a bedroom closet.

Orchestra Is Planned

The Daly City Recreation Department is starting a community orchestra, and, although there have been many responses for this group, there are still several openings for string players...

Anyone who plays a musical instrument and would enjoy getting together with others, should contact the recreation department.

Jeff High Adult Classes To Start

Adults will have an opportunity, beginning the week of September 12, to join the biggest business in Northern San Mateo County, District Superintendent Ed Morgan explained.

That date marks the first night of registration in the Jefferson Union High School District Adult Education program, and in northern San Mateo County, adult education is in fact the biggest business extant.

In the fall of '66 heralds a new era of acceptance of adult education as an integral part of the community, it also ends the era of Principal Louis J. Martin, who, during his six-year tenure, provided the drive which saw adult education in this district triple in size and scope, grow proportionately faster than day school, and enlist 9.8 per cent of the total population of the area (day school enrolls 7.7 per cent of the population, Morgan said.

Martin steps up as the district's director of special services, and will be the principal of the new Serramonte High School when it opens in two years. Replacing Martin will be Thomas A. Redmond from Jefferson High School, where he served for 16 years, the past seven as vice principal.

Transfer of leadership, however, has not impeded the progress which was especially inspired last spring by a glowing report from the visiting committee of the Accreditation Commission for Secondary Schools of the Western Association of Schools and Colleges.

This fall 105 teachers will man 11 full departments of 150 sections of classes which can take a student from the first grade right through a high school diploma.

Along with the basic courses leading to diplomas, there will be a full complement of such special interest courses as pre-Christmas sales training, voice workshop, airline operations, civil service preparation, highway and park landscaping, and others.

To meet the growing need for adult counseling services, the district has expanded its counseling program to include a head counselor and assistant to work with the usual five part-time advisors.

Head counselor will be Paul Perez. He will be assisted by Patrick Ryan. They will now be available in the evenings on a full-time basis.

There will still be available the various tests used as aids for guidance. Counselors and advisors will have information on the testing programs.

Enrollment, as always, will be uncomplicated. There are no residence requirements, and all registration will be done during the period of September 12 through September 16, beginning at 7 p.m., during which time enrollment will be made at the time and place of the first class meeting, as indicated on the schedule.

Virtually all casses offered may be taken for credit (any person 18 years of age or over is eligible to enroll). Students attending for course credit, citizenship or foreign speaking classes are exempt from the regular $1 tuition fee, which entitles students to enroll in an unlimited number of classes.

For further details, a brochure is available at all places of registration.

Sgt. Simpson Is Retiring

Master Sergeant Loren E. Simpson of 690 Heather Court, Pacifica, was honored at a retirement ceremony at the Presidio of San Francisco August 31 after completing more than 22 years of military service.

Born in Calumet, Minnesota, Sergeant Simpson entered the Army in 1944 and completed his basic training at Fort Hoood, Texas. During World War II he served in the European Theater, where he was awarded the Bronze Star Medal and numerous overseas ribbons.

Sergeant Simpson and his wife, Elizabeth, have three children, Lucky, Gary, and Timothy. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph D. Simpson, 1443 Cote Street, Shelton, Washington.

'Very Wet—Very Irate'

A neighborhood dispute in Pacifica last Thursday afternoon furnished an example of the way small conflicts often escalate.

"It all started," witnesses told police, "when two little girls infringed upon the property rights of a Terra Nova Avenue resident."

Charlene D. Wulbers, 1527 Terra Nova, told police her neighbor, Gregory P. McGoran, wet the two children with his garden hose while they were playing on the edge of his lawn.

"I couldn't stand it any longer," Mrs. Wulbers said, "so I went to the garage and got my hose and began sprinkling the lawn near the edge of McGoran's property."

Well, Mrs. Wulbers "accidentally" sprayed water on McGoran's feet, then McGoran turned his hose upon Mrs. Wulbers and drenched her clothes, then Mrs. Wulbers retaliated and "would have really got him good, except I got a kink in the hose."

Police were finally summoned, and testimony about the incident was taken from several witnesses. However, it could not be determined "who squirted who first," officers said.

Under physical condition, the police report described both subjects as "very wet and very irate." The matter was dismissed.

"DENTAL HEALTH FACTS"

What is malocclusion?

Malocclusion is irregularity of tooth position and poor fitting together of the teeth on closing the jaws. Such irregularity not only may interfere with chewing and with speech but also may lead to disease of the gums and other supporting structures of the teeth (periodontal disease). Malocclusion may also produce deformities of the face. Ask your dentist about malocclusion and its treatment if needed.

Dr. Campbell tries to limit his practice to the making of dental plates, partial plates, removable bridges and extractions for same, however, he recommends that you see your dentist at least twice a year in order to help prolong the use of your natural teeth as dentures are not as efficient as healthy, natural teeth.

SINCE chicken is so easily available and is such a favorite with everyone I am always happy to find a new chicken recipe. This recipe for Chicken Hawaiian Style, combines chicken and pineapple in a dish that is quite delicious.

CHICKEN HAWAIIAN STYLE

2 broilers, cut up, about 2½ pounds each
3 cups fresh, frozen or canned pineapple chunks
2 tablespoons freshly grated ginger root or 1 teaspoon ground ginger
1 cup pineapple juice
1 cup soy sauce
Juice of 4 cloves garlic
Shortening

Cover cut up chicken with marinade made of pineapple chunks, ginger, pineapple juice, soy sauce, juice of garlic. Marinate at least four hours, turning pieces once or twice.

Drain chicken, saving marinade. Brown chicken in shortening. Add reserved marinade; bring to a simmer. Transfer to lightly greased casserole and bake uncovered at 325 degrees about 1 hour or until chicken is tender, basting twice during the baking period.

This makes a very attractive dish served with fluffy rice and whatever vegetable appeals to you and your family.

☆ ☆ ☆

THIS next recipe for chicken is so easy to prepare you will feel guilty when you receive so much praise for a dish that's so little work. You don't even have to brown the chicken, just place it on top of the rice and pop it in the oven.

CHICKEN A LA SAN DIEGO

1 cup uncooked rice
1 can cream of celery soup
1 can cream of chicken soup
1 package dried onion soup
1 can of water
1 chicken, fryer, cut-up

Cook the rice and while it's cooking, combine the cream of celery, cream of chicken and dried onion soup mix in a saucepan; add one can of water. Heat thoroughly and let it simmer while you drain the rice and place it in a lightly greased baking pan. (Use a large pan, approximately 9x13.)

Pour one half the soup mixture over the rice. Arrange the cut-up chicken over the rice and pour the rest of the soup mixture over the top of it.

Bake uncovered in 350-degree oven approximately one hour and 15 minutes, or until chicken is tender.

This recipe could be halved for you good cooks who are cooking for two. Just buy chicken parts and cut all the quantities in half. Save the two cream soups and combine them the next night to start off your dinner with hot soup. The dried onion soup will keep very well, just save it in a jar and add it to sour cream for a dip the next time you are having a party.

WITH so many apples on the market we should take advantage of nature's bounty and make an apple dessert. Since your oven will be going anyway why not combine the baking time of the entree and the dessert?

APPLE DELIGHT

5 or 6 cooking apples
1 cup flour
Three-fourths cup brown sugar
½ cube butter or margarine

Peel and slice the apples into a greased baking dish. Combine the flour, sugar and butter and pour over the apples. Bake in 350-degree oven about 45 minutes or until apples are tender.

This dessert is delicious served alone, but if you like you may add ice cream, whipped cream or pour half-and-half over it.

Volunteer Services Are Set by S.S.F. Women

Election day seems a long way off, but you must be a registered voter by September 15 to cast your ballot in November, the League of Women Voters reminded this week.

If you have moved, changed your name, changed parties, or did not vote in the general election in 1964, you should register to vote in your present precinct.

Mrs. Bernard Hyman, voters' service chairman of the pre-provisional LWV of North San Mateo County, has arranged for registration booths at these locations:

Pacifica—September 13-15 at the Brentwood, Purity and Central Markets.

Daly City-Colma—September 8-10 at Westlake Mall.

San Bruno and South San Francisco—September 11-13, White Front Store in South San Francisco.

Colma Driver Hurt in Crash

Glen Leroy Clark, of 1787 Sweetwood Drive, Colma, was injured last Monday afternoon in a two-car collision at the intersection of San Bruno Avenue and Third Avenue in San Bruno, police reported.

The accident occurred at 5:26 p.m. when Clark's vehicle allegedly ran a red light and struck a car driven by Gordon Knight Ewing, officers said. Ewing was attempting to turn left off San Bruno Avenue onto Third Avenue.

Clark was treated at Peninsula Hospital for lacerations and three cracked ribs. He was later released. Damages to the two vehicles were estimated at several hundred dollars.

Golf Shoes For Mowing

Safety Tip for Mowing the Lawn: Wear Golf Shoes.

Home owners who play golf can reach into their golf bags and help themselves to a bonus of safety for mowing the lawn.

Sloping, terraced or uneven lawns can cause one to slip, and a fall when pushing a power mower can be dangerous. For extra sureness of foot, wear your spiked golf shoes when you cut the grass, suggests the maker of Hush Puppies golf shoes.

Mowing the lawn in golf shoes can make the job easier and more comfortable as well as safer. Such practical use of golfing equipment might even make a wife more appreciative of her husband's enthusiasm for the game.

RUMMAGE SALE

Post/Times Classified Staff Wins 3 Awards

The Post-Times classified advertising department last week was honored with three major awards for excellence in the classified field.

The awards were given by the Western Classified Advertising Association, convening in Spokane, Wash. Mrs. Margaret Buschini, Times classified manager, accepted plaques honoring The Times in the following categories: "Best Promotion," "Business Builders" and "Special Events."

The "clean sweep" at the Spokane meeting brought to five the number of important awards won by The Times in the past four months.

In June, The Times claimed an international award from the Association of Newspaper Classified Advertising Managers for best classified promotion, while a month earlier The Times received a certificate of merit, from Editor and Publisher magazine for its promotion of International Want Ad Week. Only two such awards were given nationally.

During the Spokane convention last week, Mrs. Buschini was elected treasurer of the Classified Association for the 1966-67 year.

Arizona Car Blamed For D.C. Crash

Police blamed an out-of-state driver for causing a three-car crash in Daly City last Wednesday.

One person was slightly injured.

The out-of-state driver was not involved in the crash and fled the scene.

Chahruhk Samii, 25, of 78 Linden Avenue, San Bruno, was treated for multiple abrasions of the scalp at Mary's Help Hospital and released.

His small foreign-built car was completely demolished, police said.

The chain of crashes was touched off when a car bearing Arizona license plates changed lanes on Eastgate, near Alemany, cutting off a vehicle driven by Vivian L. Bose, 50, of 1143 Fell Street, San Francisco.

'Favorable' Reaction To Bruno Mall

Initial reaction of San Bruno merchants to the shopping mall and "facelifting" proposal recommended by a planning consultant firm is generally an attitude of tentative approval, pending details of costs and financing.

San Mateo Avenue businessmen are virtually unanimous in the opinion that something of this sort is needed.

Harvey Carter, owner of Mac and Mac Clothing, said "there is a definite need for an improvement in customer appeal in our area. If something isn't done, it's just a matter of time until business here becomes a nonentity."

John Pierce, whose pharmacy building is one of the structures slated for removal by the plan, agrees that "something has to be done," but does not "necessarily endorse this particular proposal."

"Among other things, I want to wait and see the price tag on this project," Pierce said.

Robert L. Coss, president of Dollar Savings and Loan Association, said his company has been interested in the problems of the downtown district for quite some time, but, again, he doesn't know whether or not the firm will go along with this particular project.

"For one thing, I'm concerned about what will happen to the new parking space we have acquired in the rear of the office," he said. "This parking space is one of our most important customer appeals."

Ken Chapman, owner of Chapman's Boys' Wear, said he is enthusiastic about the project, but will reserve any opinion until "more of the facts are in."

"At this point, it's a case of do or die for the downtown merchants," Chapman said. "If something isn't done, competition is going to drain all the business. Our business district is already way behind in relation to the growth of the rest of the city."

Lloyd Ghiselli, Pacific Gas and Electric Company manager, and a past president of the Chamber of Commerce, said "something on the order of the proposed mall appears necessary at this time."

The project has the tentative backing of the Chamber of Commerce, and the Millbrae-San Bruno Jaycees adopted a resolution supporting the plan at their meeting this week.

Chamber of Commerce manager Dick King said a special meeting will be held September 13 for a panel discussion of the project. The meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. in the chamber council room, King said, and a full estimate of cost and other factors of the plan will be available at that time.

Bethlehem Pastor Attends Session for Orientation

The Rev. M. Douglas Swendseid, newly installed pastor of Bethlehem Lutheran (Pacifica) Church, recently attended an intensive two-week orientation session conducted by the Adult Christian Education Foundation of Madison, Wisconsin.

Pastor Swendseid's church already has launched locally the Bethel series, an extensive adult Bible study program now used by nearly 1,200 Christian churches throughout the country. Through his special training, he will help carry on its growth in his own congregation.

Using a series of 40 dramatic paintings and rigid teacher discipline the Bethel series aims to acquaint adults with the great, unifying Biblical themes.

To date, more than 100,000 adults in the country, representing all of the major Protestant denominations are being taught by lay teachers using the Bethel series. It was first offered for nationwide use by the Adult Christian Education Foundation, a non-profit organization, in June, 1961.

NBC's Mickie Finn Show Sparks Nugget Sept. 11

THE ENTIRE NBC MICKIE FINN SHOW, a rollicking fun-group of musicians who play honky-tonk, ragtime, dixieland, barrelhouse, rack-room, sing-along, and rouser-douser, will headline the Circus Room of John Ascuaga's Nugget in Sparks beginning Sept. 11 through the 28th. Fred E. Finn, the nickelodeon piano player, and his banjo-strumming wife, Mickie, are the leaders of the group. Also appearing as a special guest star will be the dimunitive bundle of talent, Poncie Ponce, TV's "Hawaiian Eye." In addition will be the music of Foster Edwards' Orchestra, the Dorothy Dorben Singers and Dancers, and Bertha and Tina, the performing elephants. Al Hirt, America's greatest trumpet showman, is now headlining his second 1966 return engagement at the Nugget, through Sept. 10.

PUZZLING RIDDLE: How Louie Gundunas, owner of the Balkan Village, Los Altos, keeps from loosening all his teeth during his spectacular Greek Tavern Dance when he picks up a table in his jaws and dances. He often performs the feat with a child sitting on the 40-pound table. Even dentists shake their heads in amazement . . . Singer-composer Dan Hicks entertains in San Francisco's newest "discovery club," the F. W. Kuh Memorial Auditorium, an adjunct of the Old Spaghetti Factory, Green Street near Grant Avenue, through Sept. 10. Hicks will perform with the Congress of Wonders, dramatic trio, and the New Improved Jook Savages jug band . . . Groups and associations planning trips for this Fall via special chartered Greyhounds for Reno and Lake Tahoe areas should look into Seven Eleven's all-expense, no-headaches tours. Everything is arranged by these Nevada travel experts, including guaranteed accommodations in de luxe motels and hotels, and highly favorable casino refunds.

LOOKS LIKE DAN BIAGI has a winner with his lively new cocktail hour at Cote D'Azur in Atherton. A big crowd was on hand yesterday for the opening session. They dug the piano stylings of Augusto Amador, and helped themselves to Rene Canabou's gourmet hors-d'oeuvres. The action starts nightly at 5 p.m. . . . The New Orleans sound, as produced by the Prime Ministers at Wayne Manor in Sunnyvale, is an unearthly conglomeration of screaming, moaning, crying sounds. Ronnie Baron, leader of the group, was raised in the Algiers section of New Orleans. Although Caucasian, he attended Negro churches with his pals and sang in gospel choirs. This is why his group's music has a definite gospel flavor which is called "soul sound" . . . Doros was awarded Holiday Magazine's "Dining Distinction" for 1966 for the fifth consecutive year.

Dan Biagi

BOBBY FREEMAN and the Fydallions are doing so well at the Hilton Inn Tiger Club at the Airport that they're being held over for another two weeks. But Bossman Bill Gilbert admits that although the club is full every night, about half the men in the crowd don't even hear the music. They're busy concentrating on the charms of the voluptuous Tiger Kittens. Well, we don't blame 'em. Bill Gilbert has an eye for talent—musical or otherwise. . . Who says the restaurant business locally is in its doldrums? Bertolucci's, the venerable South San Francisco French-Italian restaurant, has been accommodating capacity crowds and setting records for dinners sold. Shirley Temple Black, her husband, children (and some neighbor's kids), had dinner, the other night, on their way to Candlestick Park to hear the Beatles. . . .

Bobby Freeman

A GROUP OF VISITORS FROM PARIS, France told Phil Lehr his Steakery and Wellington Room was the most elegant steak house in the U.S. . . . Chris Frost, newly arrived at L'Auberge in Atherton, has already acquired a following of diners who favor his savoir faire in food service. Chris is European-trained and has served at such posh places as Ernie's and the Blue Fox. He suggests a Culotte Steak (for 2, 3 or 4) followed by Peach Flambee Trocadero (with almonds and ice cream) which he prepares at tableside . . . Larry's Edgemar in Pacifica features one of the most unusual shows in the Bay Area with its big-name cast of female impersonators during the Wednesday through Sunday entertainment schedule.

MACE FRANKLIN, the funnyman at the piano, opens tonight at Frank Martinelli's Steak Pit piano bar in Millbrae. Mace is a barrel of laughs with his thousand and one novelty numbers, parodies (some of them naughty) and a full bag of musical favorites. As you relax with your favorite drink before or after dinner, this popular 88'er will delight you with his talent, Wednesdays through Saturdays . . . The Canterbury Seafood Steak at the Hotel Canterbury is made from an exclusive reeipe of Manager Jim Hamilton . . . Winning restaurantt combination: Prime rib, steak, and lobster. This is the house specialty at Doran's in Belmont. Complement this culinary treat with the entertaining of Larry Wickersham at the Hammond organ in a cozy fireplace cocktail lounge, and an evening's pleasure is assured. . . .

Mace Franklin

GIGI, a Latin beauty with voice to match, and a figure which matches even better, is appearing on the same stage with Curtiss and Tracy at the San Francisco Playboy Club. When Gigi sings, one can picture the glow of a fire on a crisp fall evening, or feel the atmosphere of a night club in the Latin Quarter as the sultry words of ballads flow smooth as wine . . . The Grand Opening of the new lounge in the Villa Roma, 1212 Columbus at Bay, near Fisherman's Wharf in San Francisco, is set for Monday, Sept. 12, according to Owner Jim Hamm . . . Trini Lopez, singer-guitarist, whose Reprise Records are among the top-selling albums in the country, has been added to "An Evening With Frank Sinatra" at the San Francisco Civic Auditorium tonite, at 8:30 p.m. . . . Comedian-pantomimist Dick Drake has joined the two hit revenues at Goman's Gay 90's.

Gigi

Theresa and Bud To Return Soon

Won't be many more weeks before Theresa and Bud Urban return to their Scotty Campbell's restaurant in Redwood City for the Winter season. Co-owner Mary Lou has been the "general" here during the Urbans' invasion of the East Coast to tend to other restaurant and resort enterprises. P.S.: Me thinks Mary Lou will "head for the hills" for a vacation when the twosome return.

Table Tips to remember: Special businessmen's luncheon as served at Augie's of Third Avenue. Entrees start at $1.10. 4:30 to 6:30 p.m. are the daily "Happy Hours." . . . The well-blended drinks prepared by John Peet and John Savini at Cap'ns Cabin . . . Continental cuisine prepared at Dino's and served just as if you were seated in one of Italy's popular restaurants. Luncheon, dinner and cocktails seven days a week . . . Seafood dishes at Sil Oliva's Exposition Fish Grotto on San Francisco's colorful Fisherman's Wharf, a must for tourist as well as the local diners . . . Service and food with a "Frenchy flare" keeps the Burlingame La Touraine restaurant well supplied with luncheon and dinner patrons. Also serving cocktails and a large assortment of wines . . Joe and Lou Ercoli's Leaning Tower is THE place to dine before and after the ballgames at Candlestick. Elegant decor, friendly atmosphere, excellent food . . . Plan to dine at the unique Plumed Horse in Saratoga Wednesday through Sunday, not open Monday and Tuesday . . . For the pizza treat of the year, ditto, an Italian dinner, it's Romano's in Pacifica. Eat in or take out . . . Rudolfo's of Palo Alto rates high on the must list. You'll be delighted with the selective French-Italian cuisine.

All Sinaloa records were shattered, the other evening, when the testimonial dinner honoring Captain Kenneth F. Carstensen, Sergeant Morris Hazen, Sergeant John E. Guenley and Sergeant John Fletcher of the San Francisco Police Department was held at this exciting Powell Street cantina. The menu was not Mexican food, but New York steaks, for which the Sinaloa is also famed. Many of San Francisco's finest stayed to enjoy all three of the fast-moving all-Latin revues.

☆

One of the most popular places to celebrate a birthday or anniversary, or most any fun occasion, as a matter of fact, is the beautiful Hyatt House in Burlingame. A glamorous atmosphere prevails. Piano bar entertainment and dinner-dancing to Bob Wellman and his orchestra are party pepper-uppers.

☆

No lack of dance customers at Nick's in Pacifica during the weekend musical sessions of the Del Carlo Combo. These plucky gents have entertained in many of the top clubs on the West Coast. My evening visits here are never complete until Mary Ann Hay belts out just why "Bill Baily" won't come home.

Marina steak man Lew Lehr has a new description for lamb stew: "Much ado about mutton."

THIS ONE DID NOT GET AWAY—Vince Licata went fishing on his vacation (and not in Nevada) and caught this Broadbill swordfish, which, according to reports, runs only two months out of the year, August and September. This 11-foot, 9-inch "sworder" was caught off Catalina Island and weighed 300 pounds. After being frozen, it was put on display, last Monday. By now many a San Mateo restaurant customer has enjoyed an order of Vince's catch of the year. The two happy gents posing with the prize are (left to right) Louie and Tony Licata, sons of Vince "Izaak Walton" Licata.

Taddy's Souvenir Menu A Mailing Must

Joerg Krumpholz and Kurt Melcher of Taddy's Inn are mighty proud of their menu and give full credit for its design to Mrs. Diane Hailer (a local girl). The menu is ideal for souvenir sending—and the proprietors are happy to mail them for you. Palate treat: Coq Au Vin (Chicken and mushrooms simmered in Burgundy wine to extreme tenderness). This dish is called "Scandalous."

If Innkeepers Fred and Jerry Rapp are smiling more these days, its' because construction on the new Lancer Lounge in their Holiday Inn, South San Francisco, is way ahead of schedule. The grand opening will definitely be held the first of October. Meanwhile, there's no interruption in service in the lounge or dining room, where Gary Long and his band provide music for dinner-dancing.

Vicki, Paoli's Old Library's librarian, is creating quite a lot of excitement among the businessmen of San Mateo County. The Association named Vicki the "Girl they would most like to have an overdue book, out with." This title was given to her at a luncheon meeting held at Paoli's Old Library last Wednesday.

Finocchio's 'Gorilla' Enjoys a Night Off

Overheard in the lobby of Finocchio's after the Friday evening second show: Departing customer from one of the sightseeing tours to another, "Say, wonder what happened to that much-discussed Gorilla Dance this club features?"

"Oh, said the other party, "the man at the door told me the Gorilla was at the Zoo this evening."

"Zoo," true—Bobby D'Castro, who performs the Gorilla dance, has Friday night off.

Jack Bryce is the genial, new maitre'd at Woodlake Joe's. Jack, who has been associated with many of the leading Peninsula restaurants in this capacity, has a host of friends who will be delighted with this good news.

Rock, Wiggle And Go-Go-Syndrome

Names will be names—and the Syndrome in Burlingame has come up with an Al King entertainment special for this week which preems tonight. "Uncle Al" says "Mr. Clean" and the "Uncalled Four" is one of Hollywood's hottest "rock, wiggle, and go-go-go" groups. For an evening's stimulate, bar and entertainment-wise, the Syndrome has the formula.

Fuji Sukiyaki Reopens Thurs.

Have been off my Japanese food diet for a few days. I blame it on the Fuji Sukiyaki restaurant being closed for vacation. Good news, though. The Saimin and Sushi are again being served faster than American hot cakes at this popular San Mateo dining spot. Food to go or eat in. I do both.

Growing The Bromeliads

This particular Hohenbergia stellata was pictured in the Schroller garden two weeks before the opening date of the Fiesta. The Bromeliad Society borrowed it for their fine bromeliad display at the Fiesta. It went from the Fiesta to the San Francisco Flower Show and at this writing it is on display at the State Fair in Sacramento. It won top honors at all three shows.

Hohenbergia stellata is such an important member of the bromeliad plant group that "Exotica," the pictorial cyclopedia of indoor plants, has pictured it on four different pages. The plant is found native in Brazil and Venezuela. The leaves of the big, loose rosette are green and finely toothed along the edge. The tall flower spike has alternate clusters of red bracts with purple flowers.

Pineapple Family

The Bromeliaceae, popularly known as the "Pineapple Family" is found only in tropical America, with a few stretching into subtropical Florida. All the members are herbs with many of them being close to a thousand species most of which are in cultivation either for their showy flowers or for their extremely handsome and often brightly colored foliage.

Bromeliads make very satisfactory house plants in that they require a minimum of attention, and they are showy both in and out of flower. Otto Schroller grows his plants in a lathed over section of the garden in the summer time and inside the greenhouse or the house in the winter. Protection from even the slightest degree of frost is an absolute must. Otto explained that he lost two Hohenbergias last winter because he left them in an enclosed area that wasn't heated.

Otto uses and highly recommends the McLellan cymbidium mix as a growing medium for bromeliads. However, if you wish to mix your own he suggests equal parts of fine fir bark, leaf mold and sand. The cymbidium mix contains nutrients but these can be supplied the plant by frequent, light feednigs, Otto feeds once every week.

During the warm summer months, Otto sprays his plants every two to three days with water much as a quick tropical shower quinches their thirst in the wild. In the winter time they are watered only once a week for if water stays too long between the leaves at this time of year the plants get mildew.

Other than the above mildew, the plants have no other problems. No insect pests have been observed on them and Otto knows of no fungus disease that bothers them.

The Hohenbergia stellata blooms once a year but the inflorescence lasts for three months or more. After flowering the plant produces offshoots around its base. This is the main method of propagation the mother plant until they are ten to fifteen inches high then, they are removed by cutting, being sure to take some of the old stock (mother plant) along with the shoot. Unless this is done the shoot may not develop roots. The young shoot is potted in the same mix as used for the mother and care must be used to keep a small amount of water in the center to keep them from wilting in case the shoot does not form roots right away. Otto suggests setting the old plant deeper in the post so the young shoots that form at the base are partially under the soil. Set this way the shoots will form roots while still attached to the mother plant and thus get a faster start when potted on their own.

This is the Bromeliad, Hohenbergia Stellata, in the garden of the Otto Schrollers, 215 Channing Way, Burlingame. This plant won prizes in three fairs this year, the Fiesta, San Francisco Flower Show and State Fair in Sacramento.

A Fuchsia Rama Set In Oakland

The 23 branches of the American Fuchsia Society will participate in a "Fuchsia-Rama" festival to be held at the Lakeside Garden Center in Oakland, Sunday, September 25, 1966. The time is 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. and there is no admission charge.

The Alameda Branch will present a cultural display showing complete growing techniques from seedling and cutting to specimen plant The Richmond Branch will have a historical display of "Fuchsias Plants" including species as well as current hybrids. Eden Branch will have a display of miniatures including some of the smallest flowers which you have ever seen. Peralta Branch will demonstrate the making of corsages and will show many styles.

Fuchsia Lore will take up the entire Vista Room. Mrs. Violet Roth, one of the founders of the American Fuchsia Society and a collector of many years will show some of her fabulous display which many fuchsia fans believe to be the finest in the world. Bernice Dagani, chairman of the San Mateo Branch's display will add some of her outstanding collection to Mrs. Roth's and will do designing with fresh fuchsias.

T.V. Taken

A couple staying at a motel in Pacifica, walked off with more than an ashtray last week.

The Sea Breeze Motel management reported to police that a couple staying in the room overnight, apparently took a 19-inch television set and all of the bedding in the room.

For Fun— Perennials From Packet

By IVA NEWMAN

Everybody "Ohs" and "Ahs" over a border full of delphinium, a bed of primroses and dozens of Transvaal daisies. Nearly everyone, when they see the beauty perennials give to a garden or just a simple planting, promise themselves that come next spring they will set out some of these plants. Then, when spring comes and the plants are available the price is so high, many folks regretfully pass them up.

How would you like to have a large planting of some of these lovely perennials and a lot of fun at the same time? And, how would you like to have them for the cost of just one or two spring plants? You would? Then you are ready to grow perennials for seed.

Peninsula nurserymen carry a large selection of popular varieties of perennials in seed packets. We would like to suggest that now when the freshly harvested seed has just arrived is the best time to sow perennials. Sown this first week in September, they'll be ready for planting out in late fall and ready to give you good bloom next spring and summer.

More Challenging

Perennials are generally a little more challenging to grow from seed than are annuals. They are slower to germinate, for one thing, and many a novice gardener begins to wonder if primroses and their like take weeks instead of days to get started, who cares? They also last much longer in the garden, giving years instead of weeks or months of color.

Basically, the same rules apply to growing perennials and annuals from seed, except that perennials are seldom sown in the open ground, as some annuals are. One of the reasons for this is that it is much easier to keep soil in a pot or flat moist than, than it is an open area in the garden.

Seed Pans

We like to use the flat clay pots called "seed pans." You can get these in a number of sizes and all average about four inches in depth. Many of my friends prefer the "azalea" pots as they average six to seven inches in depth. We have found that the deeper the seed pot the more difficult it is to remove the young seedlings without injuring the delicate root system.

Birds Beneficial To the Gardeners

Some people, when they hear birds in the garden, think only of loading up the shotgun and driving them away. Others who appreciate nature's variety, the activity of wild life and the occasional beauty of bird song will do anything to attract feathered friends. If you side with the latter, you'll be interested in what the California Association of Nurserymen has to say about planing to attract birds.

First it should be noted that while some brids eat berries and will strip the pyracantha, these are few and far between (how many berry crops have you lost in the last five years?). Most birds eat either bugs or seeds and in either case are very beneficial for the gardener. Think of birds devouring weed seeds or caterpillars and you can't help but think of them as friends.

Such being the case, let's look at the nurserymen's recommendations. First, birds like some sort of refuge from marauding cats, a place to feel safe when they build their nests. The above-mentioned pyracantha often provides such a sancturay because it becomes, with age, a thorny fortress which cats avoid.
